

Cobrana 2021 Verónica Ortega - 75 cl.

The Cobrana cuvée does not come from Valtuille, like the other wines of the estate, but from 6 parcels around the village of Cobrana, at some 700 metres above sea level. It is a field blend, with some 25% of white grapes - red and white grapes are pressed together. The soils are not sandy like in Valtuille, but made of slate and clay. Whereas the Valtuille wines show a distinctive Rhône-profile, the Cobrana is more similar to a Burgundy wine.

Vinification

The harvest is done 2 weeks later than at Valtuille. Like the other grapes at the estate, these are not de-stemmed and are thus fermented in whole bunches. This gives the wine structure and allows it to reveal its freshness and tension. Follows a long maceration with a soft extraction in a 3000-litre vat. Then the wine is aged for some 15 months in jars and 228-litre barrels (2nd and 3rd year).
